

New Century - New Superpower?

China, Globalisation & the World Working-Class

Bill Jefferies discusses how globalisation's accumulated victories over both the working class and the planned economies of the USSR and China in the 1980's seem to have pulled capital out of crisis.

Has it? How long might it go on for? Could China or India challenge the US's global domination? What does it mean for the workers' movement?

Come along and discuss these and other issues with us.
